THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

How did the Church begin? Some people imagine that Jesus of Nazareth before he died sat down with his followers and established a new world religion, instructing them on how to proceed after his death. They think that Jesus gave us the seven sacraments, ordained the apostles and made Peter the first Pope, etc. So that all the Church has to do for all of its history is just to follow the plan Jesus left behind. But this kind of thinking ignores the real history of the Church, makes needed Church reforms unintelligible and obscures how the Holy Spirit in fact guides the Church.

The truth is much more profound. Jesus died as a very pious Jew hoping that the Covenant with Israel would be fulfilled and the Kingdom of God would be established. He believed that this would happen because of his own complete openness to the will of his Father. The Father's response to Jesus' self-offering was to raise Jesus from the dead so that the Spirit of the risen Lord could then be sent into the world. The Church has its origins in the dynamic action of the Spirit which, as Jesus said, teaches us what we need to learn and protects us along the way. Without this Spirit working in us, we could never respond to the invitation to follow Jesus.

That is why this Season of Easter is so important with its culmination in the Feast of Pentecost. It's the story of the Holy Spirit inspiring the apostles and finally descending upon them, which marks the beginning of the Church, not just temporally, but religiously. There was no Church until the Spirit inspired the apostolic community to begin preaching the Good News about Jesus, the risen Lord. As John's gospel depicts the scene, without the Spirit the Church would be nothing but a small group of frightened men hiding behind closed doors and would have long since passed into oblivion.

Right from the start, the Church had to stretch beyond its Jewish roots – despite the resistance from so many early followers of Christ. Even in the early days, the Eucharist was celebrated, but who would preside over the assembly and how abuses were to be controlled all had to be worked out. Over time the Church had to discover that the sacraments are special instruments of God's grace that communicate Christ's presence and action, but formalizing this recognition took time and experience. In fact, over one thousand years passed before the dignity of marriage in particular as a sacrament was officially recognized in the Church. Regarding the Bible, after the first generation of Jesus' followers had died, the need became apparent for someone to write down the stories and sayings of Jesus, but some of those attempts had to be discarded and only some could be accepted. Who was to decide what to accept and what to discard? Finally, the Church settled on what became known as the four gospels in the New Testament. It took centuries of prayer and arguing for the Church to put into words the essence of Christian belief in the Creed.

Authentic inspiration was not found by a human investigation into the life of Jesus of Nazareth, but through openness to the Spirit who revealed to the Church the true power of the death and resurrection of the Lord and made the risen Lord fully present among us. That Spirit, we believe, is still alive and active in the Church. Where is the Spirit leading us today? The story of the Church has not ended. How will our generation of Christians, through so many trials and errors, respond to the directions of the Spirit in our own day? We are still experiencing the miracle of Easter, the time of the Spirit, and the fullness of Pentecost. Come, Holy Spirit, Come!

Retreat Day, Saturday, May 5 — *Loved and Redeemed Sinners

Fr. Dan Ruff, S.J., former pastor at OSJ, will direct a half-day retreat on Saturday, May 5th here in Barbelin Hall from 10am to 2pm. The theme of the day will be the core grace of the "Spiritual Exercises" of Saint Ignatius: Through God's grace we come to realize ourselves as sinners, fully known to God and at the same time unconditionally loved by God. The retreat is a follow up to Fr. Modrys' Lenten Series on Sin and Reconciliation. Only when we understand our sinfulness as a lack of gratitude and a failure to love God as we have been loved can we understand the great mystery of our sinfulness and the even greater miracle of God's unlimited love. Come join us, to listen, to pray and to share faith with other loved and redeemed sinners.

A light lunch will be served and there is no charge for the retreat, but a free will offering is appreciated. Please RSVP by Monday, April 30th to: osjspirituality@oldstjoseph.org. Sponsored by the Ignatian Spirituality Committee at OSJ.
