Rejoice and Be Glad?

What exactly is there to rejoice and be glad about these days? There's no need to list the discouraging, disastrous, disgraceful things that clog the airwaves and internet. Where to look for that tiny green shoot of hope? Where for the love of God?

Exactly there, suggests Pope Francis' Apostolic Exhortation on the Call to Holiness in Today's World. Look for the love of God—that is, God's love for us. The Latin title of Francis' work is Gaudete et Exsultate; in English, it is Rejoice and Be Glad. Published in March, this Exhortation is considerably shorter and freer of formal language than some of Francis' earlier writings. What he calls his "modest goal" is to make "the call to holiness in a practical way for our own time" (2). To do so, he goes back to the source from which everything else flows. In Rejoice and Be Glad, Francis is concerned above all with the transforming gift of the love of God, the gift that makes all the difference in the world:

Only on the basis of God's gift, freely accepted and humbly received, can we cooperate by our own efforts in our progressive transformation. We must first belong to God, offering ourselves to him who was there first, and entrusting to him our abilities, our efforts, our struggle against evil and our creativity, so that his free gift may grow and develop within us (56).

God's love gets there first, Francis suggests, and absolutely everything else about us as individuals and as a people is God's gracious gift. It all comes from God. Nothing, not even our potential for holiness, is the result of anything we know or do. This is an important point for Francis, because it underscores how easily Christians still fall into ancient heresies. One of these is traditionally known as Gnosticism, the contention that some specialized knowledge or understanding is a precondition for holiness. The other is traditionally known as Pelagianism; it is the belief that some particular set of practices are the only path to holiness. Although the terms Gnosticism and Pelagianism are not everyday language, the experience that holiness belongs to some privileged group of insiders is not. Holiness is itself God's gift given freely to all, and it is a gift that contains an internal dynamism, shaping the way we live. "Christianity," Francis writes, "is meant above all to be put into practice" (109).

To understand this transforming power of God's love, Francis turns to Matthew's Gospel, in particular to the Beatitudes in chapter 5, verses 1-11 and the Great Judgment in chapter 25, verses 31-44. He finds there "the one clear criterion” that Christians must accept without compromise if “we seek the holiness that is pleasing to God’s eyes. . . ‘I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was in prison and you visited me (Mt 25:35-36).” (95) These works of mercy, Francis says, are the very foundation of the Church’s life. Even the authenticity of our prayer must be judged by the “extent our life is being transformed in the light of mercy” a mercy that is “the fullness of justice” (105). Francis finds no distinction between justice and mercy. It is as if Matthew had gone on to say, ‘I was overlooked and you included me; I was ignored and you spoke up on my behalf.’

For all its brevity (a mere 177 paragraphs), Rejoice and Be Glad is not a simple document and these few words can hardly do it justice. There is plenty to consider in depth, including how often Francis quotes contemporary writers and bishops’ conferences from around the world and the final chapter’s call for vigilance and ‘spiritual combat’ against evil personified. Rejoice and Be Glad is more like a laser, focused on the one true thing: does absolutely every aspect of our lives make the world a place of justice, mercy and truth? Does how we worship together, pray, behave as a church, act in our families, workplaces, economy, community, nation? If the answer is in anyway No, then it is past time for serious change. If the answer is Yes, then that itself is God’s gracious gift, reason for hope, something for which we can rejoice and be glad.

When people are confined to home, they can remain connected to our shared worship by receiving Communion at home. If you, a family member, friend or neighbor (with their approval of course), would like to receive Communion at home, contact the Parish Rectory to arrange for a parish Eucharistic Minister to visit.

Announcements

Town Hall Meeting

On Tuesday, September 11 at 7:30 PM, all members of Old St. Joseph Church are invited to an open meeting in the church. This will be an opportunity to listen to each other's thoughts, sentiments, and concerns for victims of sexual abuse in the Church and for the future of the Church in light of the PA grand jury report. We will use a 'town hall' format to listen to each other without formal presentations; anyone wishing to speak will have an opportunity to make a brief statement.

Archdiocesan Prayer Vigil

The Archdiocese of Philadelphia invites all to an evening of prayer on Friday, September 14. The doors of the Cathedral Basilica of Saints Peter and Paul (1723 Race Street) will be open from 5:00 PM until Midnight. September 14 is the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, a particularly appropriate time to pray for healing for people who have suffered from abuse within the Church and that Christ's mercy will transform the sin and failure within our Catholic leadership and community. For more information about the prayer vigil, visit archphila.org/vigil.

Children's Liturgy of the Word

will resume at 9:30 AM Mass starting on September 16.

Considering Catholicism?

The inquiry process begins soon for anyone interested in becoming Catholic. For more information, please contact Fr. Ed O'Donnell at eodonnell@oldstjoseph.org.

Blessing of Liturgical Ministers

All Old St. Joseph's liturgical ministers: altar servers, Eucharistic ministers—including those who bring the Eucharist to the hospital and homebound people—lectors, ministers of the Children's Liturgy of the Word, musicians, and ushers, are invited to stand for acknowledgement and blessing by our community on Sunday, September 16 at the 9:30 and 11:30 AM and 6:30 PM Masses as they begin another season of service. Representatives of these ministries will be at the Coffee Hours and Cookout Dinner that follow the liturgies to speak with anyone interested in becoming part of these ministries.

Please join us!

Young Adults Happy Hour and Hike

All young adults are invited to join the Young Adult Community on September 14, starting at 5:30 PM for our September Happy Hour.

For our fall Hike will be from statue to statue in Wissahickon Valley Park on Sunday, September 16 10:00 AM-1:00 PM, (rain date Sunday, 9/23). Contact Rebecca at bergh.rebecca@gmail.com or check out our e-newsletter or follow our Facebook page at oldsaintjoesya for more details, including volunteering to drive and starting locations. Hope to see you there!

Parish Cookout Next Week!

Join us for good food and good company in Barbelin Hall immediately following the 6:30 PM Mass on September 16 for Old St. Joseph's monthly Cookout.

As at the Coffee Hours that morning (see notice above about Blessing Liturgical Ministers), representatives from the various liturgical ministries will be on hand to talk about how to get involved.

Willing to help host our cookouts? Contact Thomas Nailor at thomas.nailor@gmail.com.

Music Ministries at Old St. Joseph's

The start of the choir year next weekend is an ideal opportunity to join the music program at Old St. Joseph's Church.

The Schola Cantorum provides classical sacred music for the 11:30 AM Mass each Sunday and for holy days throughout the year, as well Advent Lessons and Carols and Lenten Vespers. They rehearse Thursday evenings in Barbelin hall from 7:00 -9:00 PM and on Sunday mornings at 10:45 AM.

The Loyola Choir are young adults who provide a wonderful variety of contemporary hymns for the 6:30 PM Mass each Sunday. They rehearse each Sunday at 5:30 PM in the church before 6:30 PM Mass.

For more information, please speak with OSJ Music Director Mark Bani following the weekend Masses or email him at markbani@gmail.com.

Book Club

Join readers exploring what it means to have faith through the fiction and memoirs of noted Catholic writers. The OSJ Book Club meets on the first Tuesday of every month, beginning on October 2, 7:30-9:00 PM, in the Loyola Room. October's book will be Bo Caldwell's City of Tranquil Light. New readers are always welcome! For more information, contact Carol Schloss at shlosscarol@gmail.com.

Save the Date!

Fr. William Byron SJ will join us at Old St. Joseph's on Saturday, October 20 10:00 AM-2:00 PM, for a time of reflection based on his book, A Book of Quiet Prayer, For All the Seasons Stages, Moods, And Circumstances of Life.

Haven't read it yet? Copies will be available for purchase for $15.00 after all Masses next weekend, September 15-16 from the Ignatian Spirituality Committee.

The Farm Bill, SNAP and You

As summer ends, the US Congress is back in session and its agenda includes the Farm Bill. While you may wonder what this has to do with an urban parish like Old St. Joseph's, it makes a big difference in Philadelphia. Reauthorized every five years, the Farm Bill sets food and farm priorities including funding safety nets for agricultural producers and for low-income Americans. The Farm Bill directly affects many families, disabled individuals and older adults. Of particular concern for parishioners of Old St. Joseph's is the appropriation of funds for nutrition programs, especially the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, SNAP (the program formerly known as food stamps).

In southeastern Pennsylvania over 600,000 individuals benefit from SNAP, of whom more than 477,000 live in Philadelphia County. In dollars and cents, residents of Philadelphia receive $62.5 million each month in SNAP assistance. While helping recipients stretch their food dollars, SNAP also indirectly benefits local food stores, landlords, utility companies and farmers. Here are a few more SNAP facts:

50% of recipients are enrolled in SNAP for less than one year. They turn to SNAP in emergency situations like job loss, and unexpected medical expenses.

SNAP benefits help seniors stay healthy. With SNAP benefits they are more able to pay for prescription medicines, keep medical appointments, and eat a healthy diet.

Children living in homes utilizing SNAP are 18% more likely to graduate high school than their peers from homes that do not.

National anti-hunger advocates, including the US Conference of Catholic Bishops and Bread for the World, a collective Christian voice for ending hunger, are calling on Congress not to cut SNAP eligibility. Local advocates include the Archdiocese of Philadelphia's Nutritional Development Services, the Coalition Against Hunger, and Old St. Joseph's Church.

That's right, Old St. Joseph's Church! In coming weeks, watch this space for additional information on the Farm Bill and SNAP, and how to lend your voice in support of hungry people in Philadelphia. And mark your calendar for October 7, when OSJ will hold an Offering of Letters to our congressional representatives to join those advocating to end hunger in our city and nation.
